This Month's Top Tip:

Why is your work important?

Funders want to know that the money they give to groups and projects will make a difference to people's lives. They want to know what change will happen as a result of your activities if they give you a grant. Many funders refer to this as the outcomes of your project. Ask people who are involved in your group what the group means to them, what they get out of it, and why it is important in their lives. This could help you show that you are meeting people's needs. You could even use statistical information to show the needs of the communities you are supporting.
